

Proposed Horse Market – August Bank Holiday 2020

25 August 2020

Representatives from the local parishes (including Great Doddington) met with the Police last night to discuss the concern over the proposed Horse Fair due to be taking place over this bank holiday weekend. The police have been working closely with partner agencies including the Borough Council of Wellingborough and Public Health England and have been engaging with local businesses and residents and will continue to do so over the weekend.

The police are aware that travellers have started to arrive on the site and they will continue to monitor the situation over the next few days, so you will see an increased police presence around the village.

Should anyone have any concerns they should please contact the Police on 101 and quote Operation Bailey. Please only call 999 if you feel you are in immediate danger.

We will continue to engage with the police during this period and posts will be put on the GD facebook page to inform of any issues.

Carol Mundy – Clerk to the parish council
